THE COLWELL.—As announced last week, the old "Colwell" factory on La Salle St. is again running, much to the satisfaction of every business man in the city. The new firm is Thomas and Hugh Colwell. For many years Mr. Thomas Colwell had been foreman of the shops, and is conversant with every branch of the business he is in, the capacity of the shops and the quality of their work; while Mr. H. Colwell, the late out-putting man, is surpassed by none in the art of putting up a first-class building on short notice, and can figure as low as any one. Necessarily this firm will start with the advantage of the excellent reputation of the late firm, and will be sure to sustain it faithfully in the future, and build up a business that shall be a pride and a value to our city. Wm. Colwell is at the books, a man evidently made expressly for that place. Success, gentlemen.

THE LA SALLE COUNTY SAVINGS BANK has been in operation for over one year with about five hundred depositors daily depositing and withdrawing money, but yet no notice has ever been or ever will be required before drawing out money, except in case of a panic, when, as is well known, all commercial banks require time, either longer or shorter, before paying depositors.

The Savings Bank is now doing business in the corner room of the Opera House, and loans money on long or short time. It also pays six per cent. on deposits. Its vaults and safe are unequalled in the northwest for safety and convenience.

It being impossible to repair the dam, the company have wound up their business. The old firm has dissolved, and the new firm, Williams & Co., who have learned by experience to have nothing to do with the Ottawa Manufacturing Company through whose rascally treatment the old firm sank some $10,000, have moved the machinery to Dayton, where they will erect a new mill and begin operations at once.
